★ ★ ★ THANK YOU ★ ★ ★

A special thank you to our parishioner, Joe Moloney, for providing the time and funds needed to repair the flag poles outside Holy Name Church and the McFadden Brothers Post.

With the help of FDNY Ladder 122, which is on 11th Street, Joe was able to have the mechanisms and ropes on the flag poles repaired, leaving them in working condition.

We are truly pleased and grateful this was completed in time for Veterans Day.

To the Caring Parishioners of Holy Name,

It is with heartfelt thanks we express our gratitude to you for your thoughts, prayers and generosity during this difficult time.

Patrick loved this neighborhood, but most of all he loved the people of Holy Name Parish. In thanksgiving of your love and support, the Holy Sacrifice of the Mass at 9 a.m. on Saturday, November 21, 2020 will be offered for your intentions.

Thank you for continuing to keep us in your prayers.

Joan, Patrick, Maureen, Caroline and Peter Heaney

A Note From Fr. Larry

Wednesday, November 11 is Veterans Day, a day when we remember the millions of veterans who served on active duty in the Armed Forces of the United States during times of war or armed conflict. At our 9 a.m. Mass, we will be praying for all veterans, as well as for the specific Mass intention. In my "Notes" for previous Veterans Days, I pointed out the historical and current connections between the members of the U.S. Armed Forces and the Catholic religious and clergy who minister to them, to their dependents, and especially those in veterans hospitals. God bless all of our veterans (in particular, those from our own Parish!) as well as all Catholic priests, deacons and religious brothers / sisters who have ministered to them and continue to do so.

Many thanks to long-time HNJ parishioners Nick Sisto, Phil Lehpamer, and Rosalba Lopez for speaking about the Parish Stewardship Program at our Masses this past weekend. They were particularly effective in emphasizing that good stewardship involves much more than increasing weekly offerings (as important as that is!). Good stewardship involves all of us – clergy, staff and lay parishioners – working together to maintain, and hopefully enhance, that sense of a vibrant Catholic community that has been an important part of HNJ's history since 1878. Our Catholic community is becoming ever more important as we endure, and eventually emerge from, the COVID-19 pandemic.

I ask that those of you who have received our Parish Stewardship Program mailings return your Response Cards via mail, hand-delivery, weekend collection basket, or on-line by Tuesday, November 17. The cards ask what your weekly or monthly offering is currently, and what your new offering level will be. Even if you are not able to increase your offering, we ask that you return the completed card.

Please save the time and date of 7 p.m., Friday, November 20, 2020 on Facebook Live for St. Joseph the Worker Catholic Academy's VIRTUAL Fun Night of Prizes and Entertainment. See the flyer in this bulletin for details.

Scripture Insights

*Please consider the following commentary on this Sunday's readings:
(Wisdom 6:12-16; Thessalonians 4:13-18; Matthew 25:1-13)*

"What is Wisdom that we might learn from her? ...Everybody values, but few value what is valuable. Wisdom is not so much knowing what one values as it is valuing something that is worthy of our care. We celebrate choice, but choices are a dime a dozen. What is rare is the wise choice.

As we approached the last few days, months, and years of the millennium [year 2000], voices were raised, as if inspired by wisdom, announcing the 'end times.' Readings from the gospels or letters like today's to the Thessalonians were hauled out to predict the Parousia (the second coming of Jesus), once again. Ears perked up, expectant for God's trumpet and the archangel's call.... Magazines ran articles on the Book of Revelation. Talk shows chattered about the 'rapture.' Most of it was clap-trap, little of it wise.

We have a Gospel (Matthew 25:1-13). It portrays ten bridesmaids, five of them foolish, five wise. The foolish ones have brought no oil reserve for their lamps, in case the first allotment runs out. The groom is late. Finally, he appears at midnight. The unprepared call out to the others, 'Give us some oil.' But the provident tell the foolish to get their own. And so the chance is missed, the door barred, even as those left behind cry for opening. It is too late. The moral of the story: 'Keep your eyes open, for you know not the day or the hour.'

There's the wisdom. We never know the hour or the day. All ten bridesmaids, recall, were asleep. The difference was that five of them were prepared. The point is not that we should calculate when destiny might arrive. It is that we should be ready for it every moment of our lives.

Readings that deal with the 'end times' are not prognostications of the future, even though, with the church's year-end apocalyptic texts, we are reminded of the 'four last things.' [death, judgment heaven, hell]. That can be instructive, yes; but it is far wiser to think of the things that last. It is a mistake to take such passages as occult predictions concerning the end of the world. It is far wiser to see them as a way to wisdom at the start of each day. Each day may be our last. The farewell we give might never be given again. We may not see another day.

To be wise, then, is not to calculate the time of departure. It is to spend the present moment—the waiting—well.

We rush through time to get things done. When we are not getting things done, we think we are wasting time. But the real waste of time is the way we rush through it. We may think we are active, but we are really inattentive. In hurrying to prepare ourselves for things not yet upon us, we are unprepared for what is here. And sooner or later, our gas runs out.

[Fr. Kavanaugh then went on to describe a year he had spent as a priest volunteering in a remote area of Africa.]

It took about a month for gracious and solicitous Wisdom to show her face. Wisdom made her rounds to me—not when I was watching for her at dawn, but at the moment of a day's dusk.

Sitting on a porch overlooking a valley unknown to and unmentioned by almost everyone in history, I beheld the meaning of a day. Freed for a moment by Wisdom from my cares, I felt the end times. It was all opportunity. It is all now.

The last things are the lasting things: this moment of gratitude, this one gift of another breath, this particular person before me, this chance to hope, this hour to believe. It is all now.

Eternity is now. And God is with us. All that we need is to be alert.

At life's end, no matter what the hour or day, we will only welcome the presence to whom, in our rare wise times, we have learned to be attentive."

Veterans Day
We Honor All Who Served

We remember and pray for all those who have served our country in times of war, including our military chaplains.

O God, by whose mercy the faithful departed find rest, look kindly on your departed veterans who gave their lives in the service of their country.
Grant that through the passion, death,
and resurrection of your Son
they may share in the joy of your heavenly kingdom and rejoice in you with your saints forever.
We ask this through Christ our Lord.
Amen.

Greater love has no man than this that a man lay down his life for his friends. ~ John 15:13
